GAeF PhD Award 2020

Call for nominations

The GAeF PhD Award for 2020 will be conferred by the Gesellschaft für Aerosolforschung (GAeF) during the European Aerosol Conference in Aachen, Germany, August 30th – September 4th, 2020.

The PhD Award Committee invites nominations of candidates working in the field of Aerosol Science. The candidates need not be members of GAeF. According to the PhD Award regulations (published on the GAeF web page, www.GAeF.de). The GAeF PhD Award is intended to recognize internationally successful young scientists whose ideas have provided decisive stimulus in their area of aerosol research and who are recognized as outstanding among their peers in their field. The distinction is based on an outstanding doctoral thesis that has been submitted no more than 2 years before the call for nominations. The GAeF PhD Award can be awarded to a maximum of two early career scientists. Nomination is made by a full letter of support including a curriculum vitae and a bibliography. The letter should include at least one specific reference to an outstanding work of the nominee. The recipient(s) will receive a certificate and a cash award of EUR 1'000 per award.

The deadline for nominations is 1st May 2020. Nominations should be sent in electronic form to:
